so do mice, once they eat rat poison. And they have no place to live. They can't find a place to live for them to try a package. CATS and DOGS won't touch it. Rats pass no size, 3 oz, is enough.

MORE MIXING FERTILIZER

ABBEVILLE, Ala.—More Henry County farmers are using their fertilizer this year than heretofore. They are following recommendations given to them by County Agent C. S. Kelley, who is from Auburn. Very little commercial nitrogen will be bought this year, because farmers are using commercial manure for corn and planting their corn earlier than usual.At a recent meeting in Wetumpka, Ala., the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station recommended that fertilizer be applied to the ground as soon as the soil is dry enough to allow the use of a tractor. This is to prevent the loss of nitrogen which would otherwise be lost by leaching.Commenting on these facts, Textor said:It may be true that military maintenance of large armies and navies than the average citizen needs. But that is more opposed to war than those who must inevitably take part in it when it comes. Particularly is this true of those who have experienced the horrors of war.

But we have seen that
